Allegis Group Services Acquires InSearch Worldwide, Executive Search & Recruitment Process Outsourcing Firm

Hanover, MD <October 1, 2008> - Allegis Group Services, Inc. (www.allegisgroupservices.com), a leading provider of human capital management solutions and the largest provider of managed services for contingent workforce programs in the United States, announced its acquisition of InSearch Worldwide, a premier talent acquisition firm specializing in executive-level customized search and recruitment process outsourcing. Financial details of the acquisition were not disclosed by company officials.

Allegis Group Services acquired the employees, clients, and assets of InSearch Worldwide. Employees at InSearch Worldwide will continue their business operations and client service in the same manner as prior to the acquisition.

Chris Hartman, President of Allegis Group Services comments, "The acquisition of InSearch Worldwide strengthens Allegis Group Services' ability to provide a comprehensive suite of human capital solutions with the addition of expertise in both recruitment process outsourcing and executive search. Our existing clients will benefit from this expansion of our services, and InSearch Worldwide will benefit from Allegis' global footprint, access to talent, and the ability to quickly accelerate the growth of their business."

Randolph Gulian, Founder and President of InSearch Worldwide had this to say about the acquisition "I've been flattered with several acquisition inquiries over the past couple of years. But none have offered the right cultural and business fit until we were introduced to Allegis Group Services. I am excited about the opportunity this presents to my respected team of colleagues for more career opportunities as well as the expanded suite of services that InSearch is now able to offer our valued clients. Those scalable services can only be built by being part of a larger family of human capital solution companies."
